Real Help in Real Time

Dear PSA Director,

We've all been there. The panic after feeling dizzy from using cleaning supplies. The fear of realizing your child ate the dog's medicine. The concern when you accidentally spray yourself with pesticides. These scenarios could all be serious and lead to questions. Every minute counts. But where should you turn to for answers?

Fortunately, the Health Resources and Services Administration's (HRSA) new Poison Help Campaign connects people with experts through the Poison Help Line: 1-800-222-1222. It's real help, in real time. It's free, confidential and offers support in more than 100 languages. By airing this new and timely PSA campaign, you can help people get the immediate support they need and avoid potential injury or poisoning. They can also keep the experts at the ready by carrying the phone number with them.

This HRSA TV PSA (in 0:30 and 0:15-second lengths) is ready to air immediately and has no expiration date. Please place these in your active rotation and air them as often as possible to help keep your viewers safe. You will be doing a real service. In real time. Thank you in advance for your support.
